

RECOGNISED BUSINESS UNDER THE FIRE PROTECTION ACCREDITATION SCHEME (FPAS)

FPAS is the only nationally harmonised accreditation system designed to recognise the skills and competencies of fire protection technicians in the fire protection industry across all state and territory jurisdictions in Australia. Businesses recognised by the Scheme only engage appropriately accredited individuals (fire protection professionals) to provide services in the categories for which the business provides services.

Established in 1894, the Walker name is one of the oldest and most respected in the Australian fire protection industry.

It is often difficult to determine if a fire protection specialist service provider has the appropriate skills. As a FPAS Recognised Business, staffed by Accredited Technicians you can be confident that Walker Fire Protection is delivering quality professional services in line with FPAS accreditation.

FPAS is managed by the Fire Protection Association Australia*

FPAS Recognised Business status is awarded to business entities that are investing in the skills, knowledge and experience of those fire protection professionals engaged in the business, thereby supporting them in achieving individual accreditation.

Businesses recognised by the Scheme only engage appropriately accredited individuals (fire protection professionals) to provide services in the categories for which the business provides services.

Accordingly, business entities that meet the FPAS Recognised Business criteria are acknowledged as:

- being capable of delivering quality professional services as they engage FPAS accredited individuals;
- supporting the industry 'pathway' to increased quality and professionalism by ensuring its fire protection workforce is accredited through the Scheme and moving towards all individuals gaining FPAS Qualified
